

THINKS THIRD PARTY WILL BE SHORT LIVED

Senator Culberson Says So and Gives His Reasons for So Believing.

RESTS ON FATE OF ONE MAN

Organized to Gratify His "Dang-gerous and Vaulting" Ambition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senator Charles A. Culberson of Texas, one of the Democratic leaders in the Senate, sees no menace to either the Democratic or the Republican party in the new third party movement launched by Col. Roosevelt. The Senator from Texas, who is a careful observer of political sentiment, was discussing with some colleagues to-day the probable effect on future politics of the recent conference of Col. Roosevelt and his friends in Chicago. Senator Culberson did not share the anxiety of some of his political associates that Col. Roosevelt would make trouble for the Democracy in 1916. Having declared that the new party movement would be short lived the Senator from Texas later, at the request of THE SUN correspondent, gave his reasons for so believing.

"There are some fundamental considerations which convince me that it will be comparatively short lived," said Senator Culberson. "This party rests in the first place on the personal and political fortunes of one man. This is manifest, and no amount of loud contrary assertion can change this patent fact. He fought for the nomination of the Republican party, would have accepted it if he could have obtained it, and only organized the new party in sheer desperation to reach the Presidency again.

"The party was proposed and established to gratify his dangerous and vaulting ambition, and necessarily will perish with it. Its dissolution will be hastened by the fact that it is founded on false principles and revolutionary doctrines which are destructive of sound and stable government. Thousands of people voted for Roosevelt at the last election who as an independent proposition object to the character of government he would erect. The man was stronger than the form of Government he would establish.

"Such basic and enduring party principles as a centralized general Government and a protective tariff, which are hinted at but not stressed in its platform, will naturally be monopolized by the Republican party. This will be so because, among other reasons, the Republican party has preempted the ground and really believes in these principles more strongly than the Roosevelt party, especially as to a protective tariff.

"In addition to this there will always be something to thousands and their descendants in the name Republican party, just as there will be to thousands in the name Democratic party, which they will not throw off. Effective appeals will still be made to the memory of Lincoln, to the abolition of slavery and to the overthrow of secession. The Republican party, therefore, as I view the situation, has about it and in its origin and history, far more of an enduring and stabilizing character, and in the end will reassert itself as the natural and logical foe of its old antagonist, the Democratic party.

"The only thing which could prolong the life and make the Roosevelt party dangerous in 1916, and that is not to be thought of, is the failure of the incoming Democratic national administration to meet public expectation and to redeem its obligation to restore their government to the people."

HOME RULE FOR CITIES SOUGHT.

Mayors Ask State Legislature to Make It Possible.

ALBANY, Dec. 14.—Home rule legislation was the keynote of a programme adopted here to-day by the legislative committee of the New York State conference of Mayors and representatives of the Municipal Government Association of New York State. The conference decided to ask the forthcoming Legislature to enact a law vesting in cities the authority to control their local affairs without recourse to the Legislature. A law for second and third class cities and provisions for several simplified forms of municipal government, any of which might be adopted by a referendum vote in any municipality desiring a new charter, were the substance of a second bill approved by the conference.

New Curator for Brooklyn Museum.

The trustees of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences have elected William Henry Fox of Philadelphia curator in chief of the museum in place of Frederic A. Lucas, who recently retired, and he will take charge on January 1. Mr. Fox is a son of Daniel M. Fox, a former Mayor of Philadelphia. He was secretary of the fine arts department of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904, and went to Italy in 1911 as Commissioner-General of the United States to the exhibition of arts and history at Rome.

Plays and Players.

Charles Klein yesterday received a telegram from London announcing that last night's was the 200th performance of his play "The Third Degree," which is running at the Garrick Theatre under the title "The Woman." The run is a remarkable one for an American play in London. Arthur Schuchman and Violet Van Duzee have the leading roles in the English company.

Grace George, who has been appearing in "Carnival" for a month, suspended performance at Poughkeepsie last night to assist Constance Mackenzie, who wrote the novel, dramatized it and has been appearing in the leading role, time to time, to reconstruct and rewrite the play. Miss George will at once begin rehearsals for a new comedy to be produced early in January and will later appear in "Carnival."

By courtesy of Selwyn & Co. and A. H. Woods there will be given at the Edging Theatre on Monday afternoon, January 27, a special performance of "Within the Law," under the auspices of the lodges composing the Fifth Masonic District of New York. The proceeds will go to the Home at Utica.

Prof. Charles Sedgwick Minot, now acting as Harvard exchange professor in Germany, was chosen as director of the laboratory of anatomy.

ENGLISHMAN IN TOMBS HELD FOR THEFT FROM EMPLOYER

President of British Company Says Gaston Got $485 on Fake Order.

CYRIL SYDNEY GARTON, 29 years, an Englishman living for the last year at 22 East Thirty-first street, was arraigned in the Tombs court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny and held in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Herriman. He was unable to furnish the bail and went to the Tombs.

Valentine Fitzhugh of London, president of the Westralian Rotary Spark Arrestor Company of Perth, Australia, charged that Gaston took $485 when South American representative of the company in 1911.

In fixing bail Assistant District Attorney Nolan said that other charges could be preferred to bring the amount up to $5,000.

"I wish to plead guilty," said Garton, who had no lawyer. "I haven't a friend in the city except my wife."

In the affidavit it is charged that Garton showed Fitzhugh a cablegram in London from the Great Northern Railway negotiating for 600 arresters for locomotives, that Fitzhugh accompanied him to America to arrange tests and was shown communications from "C. J. Burnham," purported to be vice-president of the railway, which fixed a price of $80,000 for the equipment. Then he went back to London and charges he received a cable from Garton clinching the order for the "London branch" would cash $1,500 on the railroad company to show good faith.

Garton added to the cable, he alleged, the information that he was a friend of the vice-president from college days and would advance $1,000 of this sum if Fitzhugh would send him $485. Fitzhugh says he did what was asked, crediting the balance to Garton's expense account. Fitzhugh charges that he then received a letter from the same "Burnham" acknowledging receipt of the $1,000.

When Fitzhugh again came to America some weeks later he says he made discoveries which resulted in Garton's arrest.

ATTACKS HUSBAND WITH AXE.

Wife Suddenly Insane Gives Him Piercing Struggle.

Mrs. Josephine Streeke, 42 years old, the wife of a carpenter, of 145 Greene street, Williamsburg, became violently insane yesterday at daybreak and attacked her husband with an axe while he lay asleep.

He got the blow on his left shoulder, which woke him up, and after a fierce tussle Streeke freed herself and with his children ran from his apartment. The woman barricaded the doors and smashed all the front and rear windows and demolished the furniture and crockery.

Folkmen Drayheim and Murray ascended the fire escape to the woman's apartments, and as Drayheim was crawling into the window he received a blow on his left arm, but before she could strike him again he got a grip on the arm holding the axe, and with the help of Murray and two other policemen the woman was overpowered. After being tied with a bed-sheet she was put in a straitjacket and taken to the observation ward of the Kings County Hospital.

SAY THEY KNOW FORGER IN LIVINGSTON'S PLOT

Detectives Expect Arrest To-day of Expert Tracer Who Signed Checks.

DUPE SENT TO BANKS

Prisoner Wrote Body and Another the Signatures, It Is Believed.

Detectives expect to arrest to-day the person who did the actual work of forging the checks in the swindling game with which Myron A. Livingston, the real estate man, is charged and by which several banks lost $50,000. He is said to be an expert in the art of tracing signatures.

Assistant District Attorney Medalle yesterday showed several checks. The forgeries amounted to $20,000, he said. In most instances the body of the check was in writing that greatly resembled that of Livingston, said Mr. Medalle, while the forging of the signatures was done by another person, evidently an expert in name tracing.

One of the checks purported to be of the firm of Gaudin & Blum, furriers, 121 West Twenty-seventh street, and was signed by its attorney, Charles S. Porter. It was for $10,000 payable to cash and was drawn on the National City Bank. Mr. Medalle said he believed it was forged at Livingston's instigation.

It was taken to the bank by a dupe of his and cashed January 28 and had been preceded the day before by a genuine check of this firm for $21 which Livingston is supposed to have secured, representing himself as a retail furrier under the name of Edward Schultz. This check was indorsed in Livingston's handwriting, it is said, and cashed at a department store bank.

The Citizens Central National Bank is another institution supposed to have been victimized by Livingston. It is said he took the name of a former business associate, N. Lampert, who lives in Borough Park, Brooklyn. One check for $717, on which the name appeared, payable to the American Express Company and certified by the bank, was cashed on March 27, 1911, at the express office and foreign money paid out.

The following day another check with Mr. Lampert's name, this time for $726, was brought to the bank by a man, said by Mr. Medalle to be a dupe of Livingston. The check was in favor of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne and apparently indorsed by the firm. Detectives who had been told of the forgery that passed the previous day were watching. When the dupe presented the check at the Citizens Central Bank he was asked to go into the president's office, where he proved himself an innocent party. Livingston, who was thought to have followed the dupe, disappeared.

On the dupe's person was a letter which he said he received from Livingston in his own hand in answer to an advertisement for a position. Livingston, he said, had given him work in a fake real estate business and even had sent him out around the city to get descriptions of property for sale. This was to give the real estate business an appearance of reality. After working for a few days in this way the dupe was sent to the bank to have a check cashed.

This specimen of Livingston's handwriting in the dupe's letter is said by Mr. Medalle to be like that in the body of some of the forged checks. Philip Liebman, counsel for Livingston, saw him yesterday in the Tombs, where the prisoner was taken Friday after his arrest in default of $20,000 bail. The lawyer said the charge against his client was trumped up by former associates of Livingston who found themselves in a tight place. He said Livingston was at the time arrested in possession of a Russian passport. He expects to get bail to-morrow.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE LINE OPENS

General Manager's Daughter Is "Motorman" on First Trip.

The initial trip over the Manhattan Bridge Three-Cent Line from Fulton street and Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, to Manhattan was made shortly after noon yesterday. The first car, which was gayly decorated for the occasion, was loaded with the directors and officers of the line, Borough President Steers and other officials.

The "motorman" was Miss Marcia Breckenridge, 19 years old, the daughter of John C. Breckenridge, the vice-president and general manager of the line. The round trip of four and a half miles was made in exactly thirty minutes without any interruption, and its start and arrival were witnessed by thousands of spectators along the Flatbush avenue extension.

At a luncheon given at Raub's to celebrate the opening President Frederick W. Rowe reviewed the history of the line. "We have been operating," he said, "over the Manhattan Bridge for three months and we know now that we shall not only be able to give two or three times the ride ever given by any company in this city for 2 1/2 cents, but earn a good profit for our stockholders."

CITY JOTTINGS.

A committee of the Federated Labor party is to see Gov.-elect Sulzer this week and ask him when it will be convenient to attend a dinner which the Federated Labor party proposes to give in his honor, and to ask him when he takes office to appoint Thomas J. Curtis, president of the Tunnel and Subway Constructors International Union, as State Labor Commissioner.

One of the entertainments of the Christmas season will be that given to the little wards of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in its building, 251 Fourth avenue, on Saturday evening, December 21. After a supper dinner the large playrooms on the third floor will be thrown open at 7 P. M. for an expected visit from Santa Claus.

Morris Lerner, a tailor, 32 years old, his wife, Annie, 26 years of age, and their five-year-old daughter, Rose, were found in a rooming house at 61 East 12th street, Williamsburg, yesterday. Ambulance Surgeon Fiske of the Eastern District Hospital worked over them for nearly two hours before they were revived.

Lee Wah, a Chinese doctor of 41 Mott street, was arrested by customs agents yesterday on a charge of manufacturing and smoking opium without a license. He was held by United States Commissioner Shields in $500 bail for the Grand Jury.

Fifty dollars damages was awarded to Harold Heinenman yesterday against Police Lieut. John P. Leary of the Jamaica precinct, for false arrest in the case of the murder of Henry Wiget. On the ground that her husband tried to have her adjudged insane when she was sane, Mrs. Phony Klein filed a suit yesterday for a separation from Max Klein, a wealthy shoe merchant. They have three children, ranging from 9 to 19 years of age.

FOLKS CABLE CHILD ISN'T WANTED; SHE'S PUT ASHORE

Motherless Girl Was Going From Father to Grandfather on Oceanic.

Just as a party of tourists were about to board the Oceanic, bound for Liverpool, yesterday morning officer Fred Bird of the White Star Line ran up to the gangplank and asked if the passengers were from Victoria, British Columbia, and whether they had with them a little girl named Leonora Edith Kobbold.

A tall young woman holding a small, brown faced, black eyed person by the hand started in surprise and told the officer that her little charge was named Leonora Edith Kobbold. Bird explained that a cablegram from Southampton had just come asking the steamship officials to stop Leonora from sailing and saying that her relatives in England refused to receive her.

The tall young woman, who said she was Miss Robinson, protested that the little girl had been placed in her charge by her father in Victoria and that she was taking her to her grandfather Kobbold in London. The child's mother died only two weeks ago, the young woman explained, and her father had made arrangements to have her live with her grandfather.

But Officer Bird was firm, and promising Leonora that she should soon be sent back to her father in Victoria, succeeded in separating her from the unwilling young woman. The two went up to the Gerry society, and after Staff Walsh had heard the story he sent messages to London and to Victoria. There haven't been any answers yet.
